The Registrant was advised by counsel that it had received written notice from the European Patent Office that Cerus Corporation (“Cerus”) has filed an opposition against European Patent Application Number 0790835 (“EP ‘835 Patent”) which was granted by the European Patent Office and which is assigned to The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania and exclusively licensed to the Registrant. Registrant is defending against Cerus’ allegations in the Opposition that the EP ‘835 Patent, which claims a vaccine for inducing a tumor specific antigen with a recombinant live Listeria, is deficient because of (i) insufficient disclosure in the specifications of the granted claims, (ii) the inclusion of additional subject matter in the granted claims, and (iii) a lack of inventive steps of the granted claims of the EP ‘835 Patent. The Registrant believes that Cerus’ allegations in the opposition have no basis and it plans to vigorously defend the claims.

The opposition is in the early stages and, as yet, the Registrant is unable to evaluate the merits, if any, to the opposition proceeding. If the European Patent Office rules that the allegations are correct in whole or in part, and such ruling is upheld on appeal, the Registrant’s patent position in Europe may be eroded to the degree that the claims of the patent are narrowed or not allowed. The likely result of this decision will be increased competition for the Registrant in the European market for recombinant live Listeria based vaccines. Regardless of the outcome of the opposition proceeding, the Registrant believes that its freedom to operate in Europe, or any other territory, for its recombinant live Listeria based vaccine products will not be diminished.
